This study uses computer games and brain scanning to understand memory.

It is conducted at UCL and pays up to £90 in cash for a day and a half of work.

If you decide to take part you will attend our research offices on two consecutive days:

- On day 1 you will practice a short game on a computer. This takes about 2-3 hrs.

- On day 2 you will play the same computer game in a brain scanner (MEG scanner).

The scan itself is about 2 hrs long, but the
