University College London

The aim of the project is to validate a new questionnaire, the Daily Habit Scale, which has been designed to measure daily habits and for this I need healthy participants of all ages. We also plan to investigate factors which may have an effect on daily habits, including Parkinson's disease.

The survey includes an information sheet with further details about the project. If you agree to take part, you will need to complete this anonymous and confidential 20-30 minute online survey.
