LGBQ+ self-esteem intervention study

6 week(s) to complete

The benefits of a talking therapy with no waiting list and compensation for travel

Intervention trial

Denmark Hill, Camberwell, London, UK

King's College London

We are investigating a new talking therapy for LGBQ+ young people who are looking for help to improve their self-esteem. The study would involve taking part in an interview and then 6 individual sessions designed to improve self-esteem. You would also be asked to fill out some short questionnaires at different points during the study. The talking therapy is based on Cognitive Behavioural Therapy (CBT), self-compassion training and also focuses on topics relevant to LGBQ+ young people.
