University College London

We are looking for parents of children aged 2-7 years to take part in a study about parenting programs. You could either have participated in a parenting program already or just be interested in trying it out, in which case we might be able to offer you one for free (Triple-P online or Emotion Coaching). The study involves an interview about your experiences which will take about 45-60 minutes and can be in person (London/Oxford) or over the phone.
