University of Liverpool

You are being invited to participate in a research study looking at the relationship between Facebook use, self-esteem and how people cope with the stresses of University life. You will be required to keep a very simple, week long diary recording your Facebook use. When this has been sent to the researcher, you will be sent a URL containing a short, 10 minute follow up survey.

If you are also conducting research, I would be happy to take part in your study in return.
