The aim of this research project is to assess inter-group relations, acculturation attitudes and the effect that region and the level of super-diversity there has on these factors.

Super-diversity, a term coined by Vertovec (2007) refers to 'a dynamic interplay between an increased number of new, small and scattered, multiple-origin, transnationally connected, socio-economically differentiated and legally stratified immigrants'. In simple terms, it refers to the diversification of...
