Interview

London, UK

University of Leeds

The study aims to explore how Iraqi women experienced growing up and emerging into adulthood in the UK? What was it like to live through it? In complete confidence we will explore through face to face interview, the challenges, and the high points. I want to interview women who: identify with being Iraqi- British, or who come from Iraqi families settled in the UK; are between the ages of 25 to 30; and were born in the UK, or have lived in the UK since early childhood.
