Goldsmiths University of London

This study aims to investigate the relationship between the dark tetrad traits, empathy, and the ability to 'fake' empathy. The first part of this study will measure personality using a self report questionnaire. The second part requires you to watch clips and answer questions on them. This will assess your levels of empathy, and faking ability.

The overall study should take approximately an hour to complete.

Upon completion, you will be entered in a prize draw to win five £30 gift...
