University of York

The University of York are currently recording interviews with Sunderland-born women aged 18-25 and men aged 40-65 who travel (10 miles+) outside of Sunderland at least once per week as part of a research project examining the effect of mobility on language change in the North East. We pay £20 to each person we record, with recordings taking around an hour to complete at a studio in Silksworth, and can arrange to pick people up/drop them home afterwards.
