Online Experiment

Online

Charles Sturt University

This study investigates how factors, such as disease and pathogen sensitivity, impact how people perceive attractiveness in other people. It includes completing an online study where you will answer questions about you and your appearance, and will choose the most attractive of two people. You will also be asked some brief demographic questions, about your age, gender, sexual orientation and relationship status. Please note that you may be shown photographs that you may perceive as unpleasant.
