Experiment

Taylor Building, Nottingham
NG1, UK

Nottingham Trent University

The psychology department at Nottingham Trent University regularly runs experiments with student populations, but now we need your help for a wider diversity of participants. The experiment is three, one hour sessions, on different days for which we're offering £24 vouchers + travel expenses (upto £5) as an inconvenience allowance.

The tasks themselves are relatively simple (involving memory and object tracking etc.) alongside some quick questionnaires.
