University of Bath

Our online study looks at how people see value in objects, in particular we want to see if there are any differences between how people with hoarding difficulties, OCD and those with no mental health issues perceive objects in relation to their instrumental, sentimental, monetary and aesthetic values. This study shouldn't take longer than 30 minutes to complete and as a thank you for taking part you will be entered into a prize draw to win one of 3 x £25 Amazon Vouchers.
