Family Study: Gut bacteria and Dietary Fibres

20 min(s) to complete

£20 for each participant

Experiment.

Paddington, London W2, UK

Imperial College London

We are interested to find out how the gut bacteria of people from different generations breaks down different dietary fibres.

We are looking for teams of volunteers in direct link from the same family, such as:
grandmother, mother and daughter/son mother and daughter/son grandmother and granddaughter/grandson
