This experiment focuses on how individuals react to each word in different categories (food, political issue, social group and people). Your feeling toward each word will be measured using a questionnaire and joystick. The project consists of two sessions on two separate days, and you will be asked to come back to finish the second session after one week.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any question or you'd like to take part in. we can be very flexible to find a time that...
